The planning costs tool.

The costs involved in applying for planning permission can quickly exceed the risk threshold for many investors. In most cases, they'll expect a larger stake in equity to cover their investment. It then makes the project much less profitable for the developer.

Our Planning Costs tool lets you mitigate the cost associated with your application if planning permission is not granted.

It means funders can finance projects at a competitive price. While developers can move projects along quickly, and see a greater return in the future.

Helping you unlock more.
